The President of the Royal Irish Academy (Lord Talbot de Malahide).	Rev. Charles William Russell, D.D.
The Chairman of the Board of Public Works (Colonel John G. M'Kerlie, R.E.).	The Viscount Powerscourt.
Michael Angelo Hayes, esq., R.H.A.	The Right Hon. Maziere Brady, P.C.
	Sir George F. J. Hodson, bart., D.L.
	Robert Callwell, esq.
	John Calvert Stronge, esq., J.P.
	John Edward Pigot, esq.

Treasurers, The Right Hon. Maziere Brady, P.C., Lord Talbot de Malahide, and Robert Callwell, esq.Bankers, The Bank of Ireland and its Local Branches.Director, George F. Mulvany, esq., R.H.A.Registrar, Mr. Thomas H. Killingley.According to the Acts of Parliament, the first five Members of the Board continue Governors while they hold their respective offices; the next two Governors are elected by the Royal Hibernian Academy; the three next after these are appointed by Government; and the other seven are elected, by Donors and Subscribers, for five years at a time. Subscribers of One Guinea a-year, and Donors of £10 or upwards in money, or of works of art accepted by the Board, and by them valued at £20 or upwards, form the constituency by whom vacancies among the last named seven are to be filled up by election. The Board meets on the first Thursday of every month.

The sum of £5,000 was voted by the Committee of the Dargan Testimonial Fund; and £21,500 voted by Parliament for the erection of this Gallery. £5,000 have been voted by Parliament as equivalent to the Dargan Fund, in addition to £1,000 voted in the estimates for 1866-7, "to be issued only when private contributions have been received to an equal amount," and nearly £7,000 have been subscribed by private individuals for the purchase of works of art.

The National Gallery is intended to contain not only a Gallery of Paintings by the Old Masters (and such Works of Modern Schools as may be suitable for a National Collection), but also a Gallery of Sculpture, and a collection of Drawings and Engravings, as well as of books, in all languages, relating to the Fine Arts.

The National Gallery was opened to the public on the 1st of February, 1864, and continues open, subject to the regulations of the Board, on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, from noon to dusk (or 6 o'clock, P.M.); and on Sunday from 2, P.M., to dusk (or 5 o'clock, P.M.), admission free. Reserved for artists and students on Friday and Saturday from 10, A.M., to 4, P.M., when the admission to the public is sixpence. Subscribers and donors to the Gallery, entitled to vote at elections for Members of the Board, are admitted, with their families, on reserved days, free. On Tuesday evening, during periods fixed by the Board, and notified by advertisement, the Gallery, lighted by gas, is open, free, from 7 to 9 o'clock, P.M. Since the opening of the Gallery in 1864 to the 30th September, 1867, it has been visited by 430,426 persons.

Donations may be lodged in the Bank of Ireland, or any of its Local Branches, to the credit of the Treasurers, or remitted to any of the Governors of the National Gallery, or to the Director or Registrar, at the Gallery.
