

 Print
  PDF
  JPG
  TXT
  Cite
  Buy

November, 1906, according to the rites of the Church of England. After living with him for a week her husband left, and the last time witness heard from him was in 1907.

A decree nisi was granted, returnable in six months.

TRULOCK v TRULOCK

 Fix this text

George Marshall Trulock, a gunsmith, petitioned for a dissolution of his marriage with Daisy Isabel Trulock, formerly McKillop, on the ground of desertion.

The marriage took place, said petitioner, at St. Barnabas' Church, Sydney, on December 31, 1898. He had occasion to speak to his wife about her associates, and she subsequently left him. Although he wrote, she refused to return to him.

A decree nisi was granted.

months.

GRIPPIN v GRIPPIN.

Margaret Griffin, formerly Massie, petitioned for a dissolution of her marriage with John Griffin, on the ground of desertion.

Petitioner, for whom Mr. R. W. Fraser appeared, said she married respondent in November, 1906, according to the rites of the Church of England. After living with him for a week her husband left, and the last time witness heard from him was in 1907.

A decree nisi was granted, returnable in six months.

TRULOCK v TRULOCK.

George Marshall Trulock, a gunsmith, petitioned for a dissolution of his marriage with Daisy Isabel Trulock, formerly M'Killop, on the ground of desertion.

The marriage took place, said petitioner, at St. Barnabas' Church, Sydney, on December 31, 1898. He had occasion to speak to his wife about her associates, and she subsequently left him. Although he wrote, she refused to return to him.

A decree nisi was granted.

ORCHARD v ORCHARD.

Jinnie Orchard, formerly Nevin, sought a divorce from Lanarch Orchard, on the ground of desertion.

The parties were married in Sydney, in September, 1906, according to Congregational rites. In February, 1909, he said he had been offered a position on the steamer Makura, going to Vancouver. She had never heard of him since.

A decree nisi was granted, returnable in six months.

BRANDON v BRANDON.

Alfred Brandon petitioned for a dissolution